Tech for a responsible future

We are on a mission: to cocreate tech for a responsible future. And so, the Netherlands will be back in Las Vegas for CES 2022 with two pavilions: one for startups, 'NL Tech Square', and one for scale-ups, 'NL Next Level Innovations Pavilion'; both sharing our innovations to spark future-proof collaborations, igniting positive change.

NL

Netherlands

From 5 to 8 January, you'll have the chance to meet the minds behind the most innovative tech solutions, products and services. 70 tech startups and scale-ups from the Netherlands will share with the world the innovations that will shape the future.

Our (digital) environments are forever changing, which is why the Netherlands pavilions feature companies and solutions that will accelerate sustainable change in a wide range of fields, including clean energy, health, photonics, data security and climate change.

From waste removal technology for aquatic environments and fully electric cars to digital health solutions that improve patient care. Responsible innovation is vital for a resilient future for all. The technology we create, invent and develop here in the Netherlands can be implemented and adjusted to serve local contexts around the globe. Our stimulating startup ecosystem.

We are honoured to be within the top countries in the Global Innovation Index as the 6th most innovative economy. As a gateway to the European innovation community, we strive to maintain a competitive international business climate.

Dutch International Economic Network

Our International Economic Network offers attractive incentives to stimulate innovation and encourages sustainable business activities abroad. With our startup liaison team growing around the world, we cherish diversity and working as a community. Our advanced physical and digital infrastructure offers an excellent environment for testing and developing new technologies that can be quickly produced and scaled up. An extensive network of researchers, students, creatives, investors and government, all contribute to our inclusive startup ecosystem.

Join us in creating tech for a responsible future

We invite you to join our mission to stimulate innovation and encourage sustainable business activities. During CES 2022, the objective is to inspire and connect with like-minded tech entrepreneurs, to expand our network and form partnerships. Both Netherlands pavilions at CES 2022 demonstrate our readiness to change the world for the better, together.
